SIFTER, &c. days ago, Commissioner Raum does not share in these apprehensions, but thinks that public opinion will afford ample protection to the three imprisoned officers. District Attorney Northrop writes to Commissioner Raum at length regarding this case, taking the high ground that the sovereignty of the Federal Government must be maintained, and its right to control these cases must be asserted. It has been charged that Mr. Northrop, whose appointment was that Mr. Northrop, whose appointment was understood to have been made upon the born in the northern part of this State, and recommendation of Gov. Wade Hampton, in whose family there is a hereditary trait was not in sympathy with the course of the Federal Government in regard to these cases. The letter received yesterday shows this charge to be unfounded.

NEW YORK, July 31 .- A Star special from and palmed off by some clever Bohemian.

It appears the heroine or victim of the of insanity.

In her case this trait has also been developed and made itself apparent in numerous escapades and high-flown adventures, in which she has always figured rather equivocally.

She has for several years traveled a good deal on different railroads of this State, and by some means or other contrives to place by some means or other contrives to place herself in some peculiarly dramatic situation on almost every journey she takes.

Sometimes this occurs in one place, sometimes in another, but she is careful never to select the same point twice for her operations. It is only lately that the people of Jersey City, and in fact the whole country, were shocked by a tale of horror which she disclosed to a policeman. The Utica yarn is identical with the one told of an adventure at Trenton. N. J., a little over three weeks veriest romance.
